

6 Reasons Healthcare Organizations Partner with MedTrainer on Credentialing

1. Reduce Costs

The average credentialing specialist salary in the U.S. is $52,016. By outsourcing credentialing to MedTrainer specialists, you pay a monthly fee instead of a salary and bonus. Plus you're getting a team of specialists as opposed to one person.

2. Centralize Documents

Credentialing requires a mountain of documents per provider, making the whole process a nightmare. MedTrainer puts all those pieces in one place with CAQH profile management and the ability for providers to add and update information in the same system where you're performing verifications.

3. Streamline Recredentialing

You've done all the work – don't waste it by letting a provider's credentials lapse! You risk not getting paid and face a lengthy re-enrollment process. MedTrainer's software reminds you of deadlines and helps to reduce errors.

4. Eliminate Duplicate Work

Staff turnover is a reality. But when every credentialing action is logged in MedTrainer and a credentialer leaves, you don't have to spend hours trying to determine what has been done and what remains.

5. Improve Onboarding

Don't give clinicians a reason to leave your organization! Customers say MedTrainer shortens the credentialing process by three weeks on average, so new hires are in front of patients sooner. This gets you and your providers paid quicker, increases provider retention, and improves practice reputation.

6. Maintain Consistency

When your facility's in-house credentialer leaves, not only do you face the time and cost to replace the position, but you also have to keep all aspects of credentialing and re-credentialing moving forward while you are hiring.

“We have several providers for our five clinics and one person who handles credentialing needs. MedTrainer has helped save us time to focus on more billing tasks at hand.”

– Dana Eberhard, FASA Family Wellness PLLC
